Some Suggestions

on Arkansas

State Highways

My partner, C. E. Palmer, has worked out some ideas regarding Arkansas roads and published them in an editorial in his papers.

Personally I am opposed to further state borrowing, but this question may not be raised as soon as expected. Mr. Palmer writes, for instance:

"It is generally understood that prospects are now that highway revenues will be sufficient for the next two years to match all the federal aid available to the state. So that is no part of the problem."

And, continuing, he says:

"The opinion is pretty general that there are now too many miles of highway in the state system for proper construction and maintenance by the State Highway Commission. Some of this mileage could undoubtedly well be returned to the counties, as the counties receive substantial sums from gasoline tax revenues and have more money available for highway construction and maintenance than they have ever had before...."

"This new highway construction of which the state will bear the entire cost should all be of first class workmanship with first class material. However, on our secondary roads, where traffic is not now and probably never will be as heavy as on our main arteries, very substantial sums can be saved as it will not be necessary to meet the federal requirements on grades and curves, which would necessitate extensive realigning, grades and fills."

"We have now in the state some good roads, built years ago, constructed at less than half the cost which meeting federal requirements in these respects would have entailed. Many hundreds of miles in the state can be built with substantial savings and yet give us satisfactory roads."

Grab Your Hats, Folks: Next Trip May Take Us To Moon

BY S. BURTON HEATH

Dr. Dinsmore Alter, director of Los Angeles Observatory in Los Angeles, is taking visitors on an imaginary trip to the moon in an imaginary spaceship. He describes it as a preview of what human beings may actually do while many who read this still will be living.

The Navy predicts, apparently with straight face, that it will get unmanned rockets to the moon within a year. Scientists agree that this would be a first step essential to sending human beings 238,000 miles into the stratosphere, with at least a theoretical hope of getting back alive.

Up on the moon Dr. Alter says, there isn't enough oxygen to sustain human life. If you made such a trip you'd have to take along your own breathing air. Temperature varies from more than 200 degrees above zero by day to more than 200 below zero at night; so don't forget your insulation.

On the moon there is no atmospheric screen against ultra-violet rays, which suggests a plentiful supply of sun tan lotion, though these rays may be deflected by the thick suit of lead you'll need for protection from cosmic rays. Apparently you won't find food or water, so better pack a hamper and fill a thermos bottle.

It sounds fantastic and it is fantastic. But the man who conducts these imaginary trips and discusses their counterparts as possibilities for a nearby generation, is an eminent scientist.

One Witness to Be Charged With Perjury

LEAD PI BATTERED FORD

Washington, Aug. 25 — (UPI) — A battered old Ford car, and what was done with it, became a central issue today when Alger Hiss and Whittaker Chambers faced each other in the congressional spy hearings.

The two men—accused and accused—were brought together before the House Un-American Activities Committee and warned that one or the other will be tried for lying under oath.

Then Hiss was questioned for hours about a 1929 Ford he once owned. It was clear the committee expected by tracing the Ford it could pin down, at least partially, the matter of who was lying.

Hiss, 43-year-old former State Department official, said he knew Chambers in 1934 or 1935 as George Crosley, a free lance writer, and "gave" or anyhow let him use the car.

But Hiss insisted he could not recall ever getting the car back and selling it, but wouldn't be surprised if that had happened.

In Mississippi, Rep. John E. Rankin, outspoken champion of white supremacy, won handily over the two opponents who had been expected to give him a tough fight in his bid for nomination to his 15th consecutive term in the House.

Both Claude Clayton, a war veteran who almost beat Rankin in 1946, and Circuit Judge Raymond J. Traylor, the 60-year-old Rankin so badly that they conceded defeat six hours after the polls closed.

Three other Mississippi congressmen also were victorious in their contested races for re-nomination.

They were Reps. G. Abernathy, John Bell Williams and William Colmer. Democratic nomination in Mississippi is tantamount to election.

Stripling produced also what he said was a copy of a certificate of title showing that Alger Hiss assigned title to a Ford roadster to the Cherne Motor Company of Washington on July 23, 1926. This was about a year after Hiss said he had given the car to Chambers or Crosley, or at least the use of it.

At that point the committee recessed for lunch.

At the start of the morning session, Chairman J. Parnell Thorne (R-NJ) flatly declared that as a result of the hearing one of the two men would be "tried for perjury."

Slowly, solemnly, Thomas said: "As a result of these hearings, certainly one of these witnesses will be tried for perjury."

Says Repeal of Labor Law Unlikely

By JACK BELL

Washington, Aug. 25 — (UPI) — Republicans contended today that President Truman is facing a Congressional blank wall in his determination for repeal of the Taft-Hartley act.

When he opens his election campaign at Detroit on Labor Day, the president is expected to call again for the next Congress to wipe off the labor law off the books.

But politicians who have looked into the situation said that unless Mr. Truman can win in November by a landslide vote, he has virtually no chance of overturning the overwhelming majorities chalked up in Congress last year in the favor of the act.

These politicians noted that — particularly lawmakers — Taft-Hartley law opponents would have to win 27 of the 29 senatorial races this year to mark up Senate majority for repeal. Their task would be of equal proportions in the House.

The echoes still ring from learned explanations why no vehicle, no engine, no mind could move faster than sound. Yet American planes have done that little thing, not once but several times. Just the other day a high admiral agreed with the head of a foremost aircraft factory that, within five to seven years, man will fly at a speed between one and two thousand miles an hour. If you have no pencil and paper handy, that is a speed of from 17 to 33 miles a minute.

All that detracts us, says the admiral, is engine power. And experts now talk without blushes about using atomic fission to power airplanes, which would provide power beyond the wildest dreams of man prior to 1945.

As Hamlet remarked: There are more things in Heaven and Earth than are dreamt of in your philosophy, or ours.

Abdication Case Against Maharajah Is Dropped

New Delhi, India, Aug. 25 — (UPI) — A government announcement said tonight, abdication proceedings against the wealthy Maharajah of Baroda have been dropped.

The ruler agreed to grant complete, responsible government without reservations and to make good the state funds he is alleged to have used improperly.

The state legislature, which demanded his abdication, has asserted the Maharajah had misused $10,000,000 of Baroda state funds on a six weeks spending spree.

Congressional Incumbents Easy Winners

Incumbent congressmen had a comparatively easy time of it in Tuesday's primary elections in Mississippi and New York, returns showed today.

NLRB Charges ITU With Law Violation

Washington, Aug. 25 — (UPI) — The NLRB general counsel's office today asked that the International Typographical Union be held in contempt of court for insisting on closed shop contracts.

The union is under a five-month old injunction against negotiating such agreements outlawed by the Taft-Hartley act.

In a critical move against the closed shop, the National Labor Relations Board's prosecuting a agency charged the union's top officers with having disobeyed and disregarded the injunction.

The restraining order was issued March 27 by Judge Luther M. Swygert at Indianapolis. It was there that Robert N. Denham sent his formal petition that the union be cited for contempt.

When he opens his election campaign at Detroit on Labor Day, the president is expected to call again for the next Congress to wipe off the labor law off the books.

Military Men Told to Stop Bickering, Unite

Washington, Aug. 25 — (UP) — The nation's military leaders were under orders today to stop inter-service bickering and to make unification of the armed forces an actual—as well as a legal—fact.

Defense Secretary James Forrestal laid down the law yesterday in an unusual conference with 300 top officers of the army, navy and air force. He gave them a detailed account of what went on at the recent Newport, R. I., meeting of the joint chiefs of staff.

These chiefs—Gen. Omar N. Bradley of the army, Adm. Louis Denfeld of the navy and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg of the air force—then told the officers how the Newport conference spelled out the specific functions of each branch of the services.

All three urged the officers to forget their inter-service rivalries and work together as a team.

When they finished their reports, Forrestal called upon the 300 officers to carry out the spirit and intent of their remarks, as well as mine."

"To do less would be a disservice to your service, to the national military establishment, and to our nation," he said. "Deviations from this course of loyalty either knowingly or unwillingly contribute nothing to the country's welfare but actually detract from our world standing."

Forrestal told the officers that, as a result of the Newport conference, the top command has "clear understanding" of the exclusive role of the air force in the field of strategic warfare.

But he added that the air force will not merely permit but will seek help from the naval air arm in the use of airpower "either strategically or tactically."

He said the navy has the exclusive control over anti-submarine warfare but will call on the air force for help when it needs some."

Regulation of installment credit "can make a worthwhile contribution to economic stability," the board said.

Their predictions followed a Labor Department report that average retail prices jumped 1.2 percent to a new record between mid-June and mid-July. — The last full 30 day period for which definite figures are available.

On the basis of this report, General Motors Corp. raised the wages of 265,000 employees by three cents an hour. The company and the CIO auto workers last May tied a part of these workers' wages to the cost of living and this was the first pay-off period.

In its report, the department said the general cost of living last July 15 was 9.7 per cent higher than a year ago and 39.3 per cent above June, 1946, when most price controls were abandoned.

Meanwhile, the Federal Reserve board said "The American public has gone into debt more rapidly in the three years since V-J Day than in any other period in our history."

Consumer credit for the purchase of automobiles, refrigerators and other "durable" goods constitutes an important sector of this debt, the board said in its monthly bulletin.

NEW YORK COTTON

New York, Aug. 25 — (AP) Cotton futures were steady in full trading today. Hedge selling was light partly due to the fact that futures were below the loan levels.

Dealers also believed mills were buying spot cotton mostly for immediate shipments, eliminating the necessity for hedging.

Offerings were absorbed principally through trade buying. Locals were on both sides of the market.

Weather continued favorable in the cotton belt.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Chicago, Aug. 25 — (AP) — Damage to corn in Iowa and demand for wheat from cash houses supported an upturn in grain today. In an active trade, prices spurred as much as 3 to 4 cents a bushel at times. Some selling toward the close reduced earlier gains.

Other commodities moved along with grains for a good part of the day. But toward the close, cashness again developed in fats and oils. Lard dropped below the previous close. Soybeans barely held small gains.

Wheat closed 1.58 to 4 cents higher. September $2.23 5.87; corn was 1.21-1.28 higher. September $1.59 38.58; oats were 16.78 higher. September 72-34; rye was 1.12 to 2 cents lower. December $1.63 1.22, and soybeans were 3.41-1.2 higher. November $2.45.

Cash wheat followed the futures market higher today; firm; remanaged higher today; basis firm; receipts 12 cars. Corn was three to five cents up; basis unchanged to easier; bookings 100,000 bushels; shipping sales 100,000 bushels; receipts 78 cars. Oats were one to two cents more; basis steady; bookings 50,000 bushels; shipping sales 45,000 bushels; receipts 20 cars. Soybeans receipts were four cars.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Aug. 25 — (AP) — The stock market floundered around in a narrow price area today.

Trading was slow and price changes for the most part indecisive. Some rails made a fair showing but generally quotations moved in a functional range either way.

"Tumult" was at the rate of about 550,000 shares, below yesterday's maximum 620,000.

The Russian news once more was blamed for a torpid market.

Higher a good part of the time were Santa Fe, Northern Pacific, Chesapeake Ohio, Atlanta Coast Line, Illinois Central, Caterpillar, Frisco, Lockheed, Schenectady, American Telephone Consolidated, Natural Gas, American Can, Owens-Illinois and American Woolen.

On the losing side off and on were U.S. Steel, Youngstown sheet, United Wall Paper, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft. A mercantile Smelting, American Electric Philip Morris, Pacific Western Oil and Twentieth Century Fox.

Trading in corporate bonds was almost at a standstill.

of offices for the exchange of eastern and western marks.

One Communist report said Soviet members of the council intended to introduce a proposal to place all Berlin police under the ousted city police chief, Communist Paul Markgraf, who now commands only the Soviet police.

The U. S. State Department, on Aug. 19, asked the Russian government to recall Jacob M. Lomakin, the Soviet consul general in New York because of his activities in the Kasenkin case.

Lomakin is scheduled to start home Saturday. The U. S. note informed the Russian government that Mrs. Kasenkin would not be turned over to Russian authorities against her will and rejected contentions that she had been kidnapped. In the hospital she has refused to see Soviet authorities. She scheduled a news conference yesterday but it was cancelled when she became exhausted by the preparations.

The Soviet reply as published by Tass categorically rejected the claim that Mrs. Kasenkin would not be turned over to Russian authorities against her will and rejected contentions that she had been kidnapped. In the hospital she has refused to see Soviet authorities. She scheduled a news conference yesterday but it was cancelled when she became exhausted by the preparations.

The military government said the German zone police had been sent into the Russian zone by U. S. Army intelligence agents to obtain some information the mission had labeled "top secret."

However, withdrawal of armed Russian, American and British guards from the Potsdamer Platz, much raided black market center where the zones of the blockaded city meet, eased pressure in this capital.

German police headquarters in western Berlin said persons in Russian uniforms wounded a German woman last night at the boundary between western Berlin and the surrounding Russian occupation zone.

Mal. Gen. Alexander Ketikov, Russian commandant of Berlin, accused the German zone police of deliberately splitting the city police and other agencies aiding the black market and disrupting normal activities of the police.

The actions and statements of the Soviet government and its official representatives in the United States in the affair of Kasenkin and Samarin fully correspond to the lawful interests of the Soviet Union in defense of its citizens from criminal infringements on their freedom and civil rights," the note said.

"The actions and statements of the Soviet government and its official representatives in the United States in the affair of Kasenkin and Samarin fully correspond to the lawful interests of the Soviet Union in defense of its citizens from criminal infringements on their freedom and civil rights," the note said.

The Soviet action, announced last night as a chance to a dispute over runaway Russian school teachers, is regrettable but not a very serious matter.

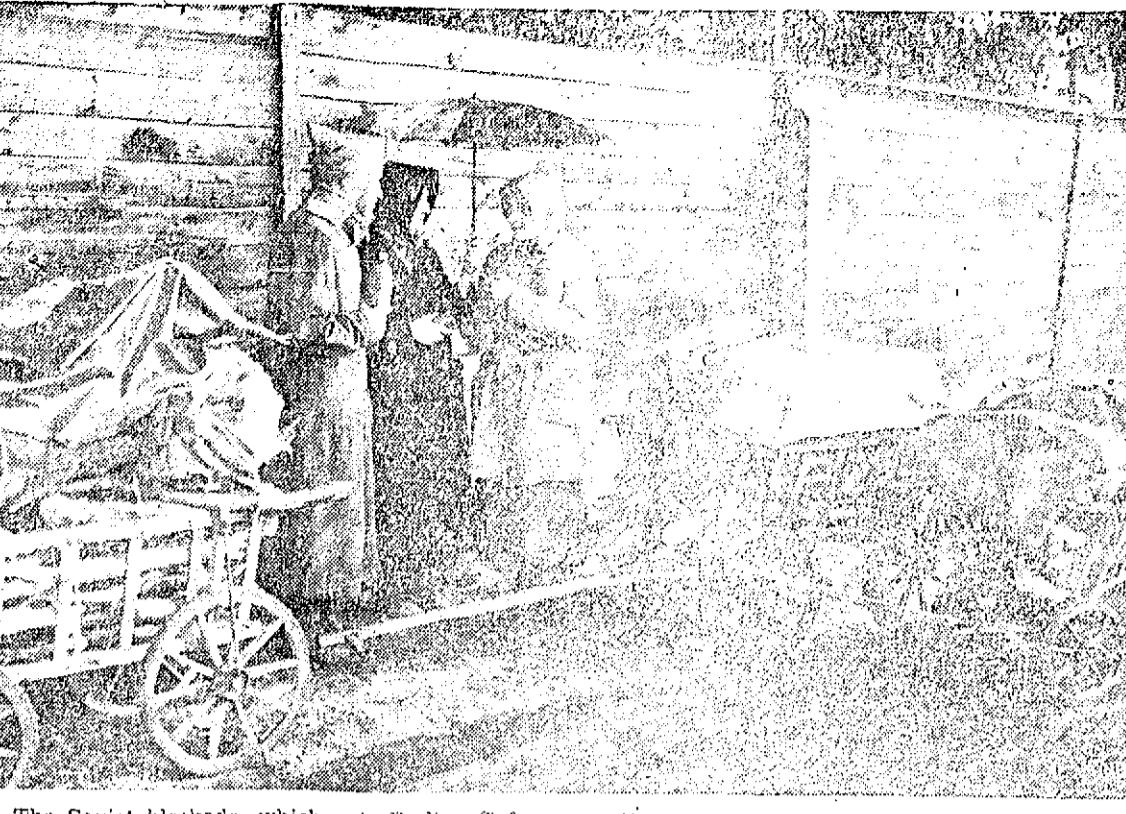

The American consulate in the Pacific port was so circumscribed in its activities that he was able to accomplish very little, Marshall said.

Moscow also cancelled a 1947 agreement to permit reopening of former American consulate in Leiningrad. Marshall told reporters that no progress had been made toward opening the consulate there.

Along with this action, the Soviets ordered the closing down of the Soviet consulates in New York and San Francisco. That move speeded up a steady recall of Soviet citizens from this country.

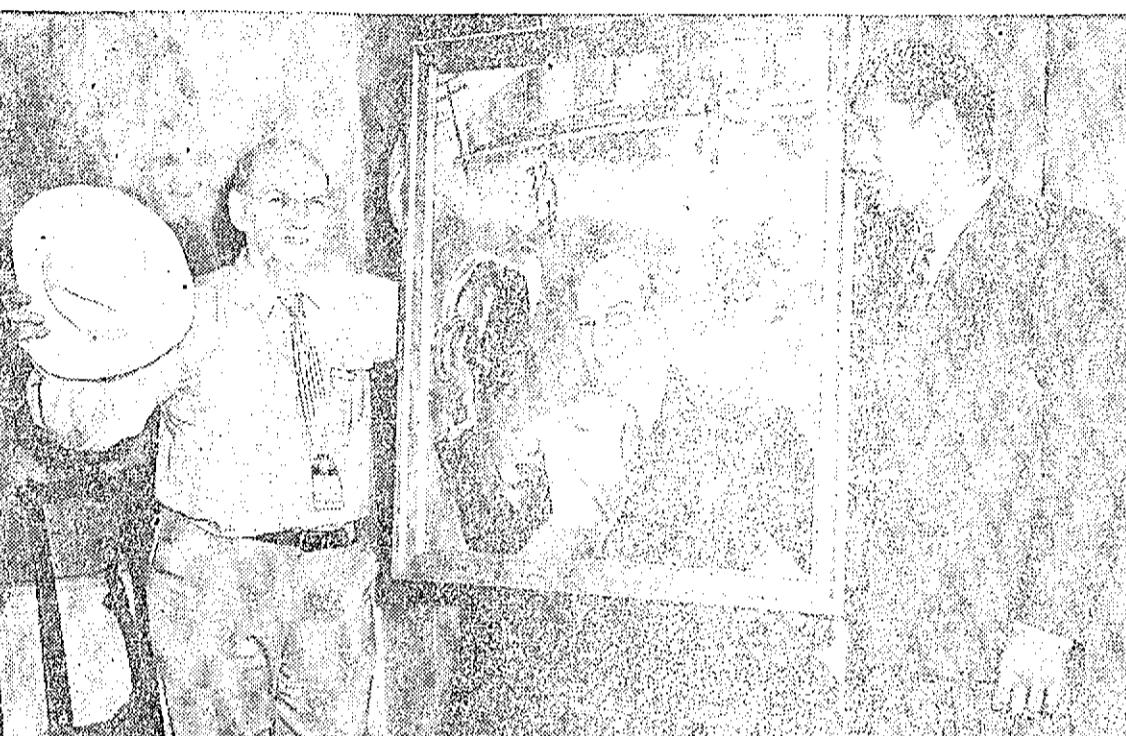

Carefully choosing his words, Marshall noted that the Russians

To Head Hungary

When he left open the question of the next step by the United States in the dispute with Russia over the three school teachers who refused to return to their homeland, he said the Soviet note delivered last night is still being translated.

Moscow enclosed, in response to a State Department request, photostatic copies of letters written by one of the teachers, Mrs. Okasina Kasenkin, Marshall said. The script was difficult to read and that he was told Charles E. Bohlen, State Department counselor and Russian expert, has not been able thus far to decipher it.

Asked whether the letter will be made public, he said the decision will not be made until he had a chance to read them.

The Soviet decision to break off relations was Russia's answer to an American demand for recall of Soviet General Jacob M. Lomakin in New York. The U. S. has protested that Lomakin abused his official status in the refugee school teachers case.

Along with this action, the Soviets ordered the closing down of the Soviet consulates in New York and San Francisco. That move speeded up a steady recall of Soviet citizens from this country.

make a decision which one is lying and seek action against him in the courts.

The 43-year-old Hiss was sworn in as the first witness immediately after Chambers' statement.

Hiss then publicly admitted for the first time that he once had known Chambers, but said it was under the name of George Crosley.

At previous hearings, Chambers has accused Hiss of being a member of the Red underground in Washington in the 1930's. Hiss has denied it. Hiss also once testified publicly that he never knew Chambers. But since then, Hiss was told the committee in a closed door session that he did know Chambers under the name of Crosley.

With Hiss under oath, Robert E. Stripling, chief investigator for the committee, turned to Chambers, who was sitting behind one of the press tables.

"Mr. Chambers, will you stand up?" Stripling asked.

Turning back to Hiss, the investigator inquired:

"Mr. Hiss, have you ever seen this individual who is standing?"

"I have sir," Hiss answered.

Hiss said he knew Chambers as George Crosley in the winter of 1934 or 1935. He said he last saw Chambers in 1935.

A moment later, Chambers said he last saw Hiss in 1934.

That was after Thomas swore Chambers in as a witness and the two key men in the hearings stood facing one another.

Stripling: "Do you know this man?"

Chambers: "Yes."

Stripling: "Who is he?"

Chambers: "Alger Hiss."

Stripling: "When did you know him?"

Chambers: "In 1934."

Stripling: "When did you last see Mr. Hiss?"

Chambers: "In 1935."

So right at the start there was an element of conflict in the testimony of two men who had taken an oath to tell the truth.

In the caucusing room of the old house office building, hundreds of spectators watched the drama unfold. Others trailed out in a

Visits Grave of Rudolph Valentino

Hollywood, Aug. 24 — (UPI) — "The Lady in Black" paid her annual visit yesterday to the crypt of Rudolph Valentino, one of the screen's most romantic figures, died 22 years ago in New York. Rita Flannigan, former Hollywood violinist, visited the matinee idol's resting place on the anniversary of his death as she does every year since 1927.

Dressed in black, she placed a bouquet of red carnations before the crypt.

Miss Flannigan said she is president of the Hollywood Valentino Memorial Guild, which is dedicated to keeping the memory of the actor alive.

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 25 -- (AP) -- Thirty-two caddies chasing a free college education teed off today in the second round of the third national caddy golf tournament.

Prize to the winner of the tournament is a $1,000 scholarship.

Favorites suffered deeply yesterday, for among the top qualifiers only buckshot Roy Webbers, blind Lincoln, Neb., swinger, survived first round match play. Webbers bent over Jack Higgins of Webster Grove, Mo., 6 and 5.

Don Gariglio of Normandy, Mo., who was fifth in qualifying, was upset by Don Scharbulis of Kewanee, Ill., one up.

The N. R. A. had been a mess, anyway, with thousands of parasitic trash all in a scramble under General Hugh Johnson, a foul-mouthed old cavalry soldier who was still most of the time but a glory-hunter and hero-worshipper and thought Roosevelt was a great man. The N. R. A. had finally come all unhooked and Roosevelt would have been in a worse jam if the supreme court had held it to be constitutional than he was when the court said it was not. If it had been constitutional, Roosevelt would have been obliged to keep it going and that just couldn't be done. Already it was avoiding shakedowns and gangsters were corruption was progressing like some terrible civic disease. The big faker probably was scared stiff and glad to be shed of the N. R. A.

But, through his unions, he could carry on almost as well and he did until he died. The caddies, the unions continued their outrageous racketeering, the parasitic taxation of wages and commodities, the restrictions of output and their brutal intimidation of citizens by mobs of semi-military Fascist thugs. Until, finally, a Republican Congress passed the Taft-Hartley law.

President Truman never had had any really intelligent or positive ideas about unionism or the rights and wrongs of labor's aspirations and he probably has none yet. However, as a senator he had to know the political advantages of certain issues and, as a New Dealer, he naturally adopted Roosevelt's unionism, whole.

For strictly political reasons, Truman took a strong stand against Taft-Hartley and finally vetoed it as an attempt to keep the racketeers under obligations and loyal to his administration.

Since Congress passed T-H again over Truman's veto, the results, to the extent that they can be sensed at all, have been good for labor. By labor, I mean people who work rather than the Fascist burns who run most of the unions. There have been very few strikes, but on the score of damage done the result is not good. John Lewis struck and when he strikes the show and pain are felt thousands of miles away and months afterward. We do know, however, that the new law hasn't hurt the workers. In fact, it hasn't hurt even the union bosses except in their pride. It has been terrible humiliation to them to realize that they can be fined and sent to jail like ordinary criminals.

This unionism is fascism in that it is an absolutely licentious and unrestrained force within the society, exercising power over the people which they never would think of granting to the government.

For example, several New York unions compel their members to attend political rallies, always in favor of left-wing candidates. If they fail to attend they can be fined and they are so warned in the notices.

A real American engaged in these trades would be forced to join one of these unions. To keep his job he must remain a member. To remain a member, he must contribute his presence to a rally for some candidate loathsome to his political or pay the fine. The fine usually is a dollar but the important fact is that this union can do this to him. It can fine him $1,000. The law sets no limit on the mount of the fine. So, under this particular phase of fascism, an American can be forced to whoop it up for a Roosevelt, a Truman or Mussolini or banished permanently from work by some enormous fine.

No branch of government can fine anyone $1 or 1,000 for failing to go to a political meeting. But any union can.

I have here a chit of A. P. copy dated last Dec. 18, date line, New York.

The greater New York CIO Council tonight voted to establish what was termed "a standing army" to be on call for picketing and mass demonstrations. Saul Mills, re-elected secretary treasurer, said the executive board had come to the conclusion that a standing army of several thousand C. I. O. members in New York, should be on hand to respond to any call for picketing or other activity."

Wait a minute, now. Let that last sink in. "Standing army" -- on call for picketing or other activity?"

How do you like that business of a private society, this one dominated by the Communists, raising "standing army" in New York for "picketing or other activity?"

How do you like that business of the Communists, this one dominated by the Communists, raising "standing army" in New York for "picketing or other activity?"

How do you like that business of the Communists, this one dominated by the Communists, raising "standing army" in New York for "picketing or other activity?"

That could mean mob action, like the pogroms of Hitler's brown shirts in Berlin.

The Communists know all about mob action. Start a decoy fight downtown. Kill a few people. Get all the cops sucked into that area.

They planned it that way.

Wednesday, August 23 — Presbyterian choir meets 7:15, p.m.; Prayer service Baptist Church 7:30; choir practice 8:15; First Christian Church 7:45.

Thursday, August 24 — Wednesday Bridge Club 2:30 p.m. at home of Mrs. Dallas Atkins.

Sunday, August 29 — Daniel Stuart wedding, Presbyterian Church, 5 p.m.

Combs-McSwain

At 8 o'clock on Saturday evening, August 21, in a beautiful candlelight ceremony in the First Methodist Church in Prescott, Miss Patricia McSwain daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Douglas McSwain of Prescott became the bride of William Patton Combs, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Baxter Combs of El Dorado.

The Reverend C. Ray Hozenloph read the double ring ceremony. Wylie Carter and Fred Lange of El Dorado lighted the tapers.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. J. H. Combs, director of the program of spiritual music, and Gillian Bradon of Springdale sang "Because." Liedestraum was played during the vows. Before the couple knelt for prayer Mr. Bradon sang "The Pledge," by Jennie Prince Black.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiantly lovely in a gown of ivory satin, with a belt of silver leaf from a deep off-the-shoulder vest of imporled illusion, outlined with a motif of seed pearls. The long fitted sleeves carried the same motif at the hand.

The tall, elegant shirt lengthened into a long train. Her vest of imported illusion fell from a band of satin leaves and seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of orchids, brides' roses and stephanotis.

Five of the maidens came in person and eight wrote Alden to present his case, and the others contacted her by phone.

"All of them are very nice," she said, "but there is one from Birmingham I like particularly."

Coming to the United States eight months ago to visit a Northwood family after tending their son's grave in Holland, Miss Edelman's visa first expired two months ago.

Getting a renewal she attempted to enter the University of Alabama as a foreign student but did not have sufficient number of credits required.

Now, she explains, she must marry an American by August 30 or set sail for the Netherlands. And she wants to stay in the United States.

Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. Ruth Martin, Port Arthur, Texas, Miss Nancy Apple, Tulsa, Oklahoma, and Misses Ethel McWool, Emily, Mary Jane Colman and Mary Thomas of Prescott. Miss Marilyn Hong, Texarkana, presided at the bride's book.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Frank Gilbert, aunt of the bride, and receiving were Mrs. Charles Douglas McSwain and Mrs. William Baxter Combs.

After a wedding trip to Colorado and New Mexico, Mrs. and Mrs. Combs will return to El Dorado, Fayetteville, where the groom will attend the University of Arkansas.

Out of town guests included Mr. W. B. Combs, Miss Melba Combs, Mrs. Robert B. Edland, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Colemen, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Myers, Bob Myers, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Atkinson, Miss Emma Lou Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Head, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Donnelly, Mrs. Harold Head, all of El Dorado, and Mrs. J. Allen Grosson, Jim Greeson, Mrs. Matt Hill of Little Rock, Warren Theis, Pine Bluff, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Nelson, Bush Hoan, Jr., Texarkana; Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Garland, J. M. Garland, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson, Miss Lucile Daffin, Miss Garland, Mr. and Mrs. Rainy Garland, Mrs. Melvina Garland, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holton, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Holton, Mrs. Harvey Shantz of Emmet; Lloyd Godley, Ossmund, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dalton, Arkadelphia; the Reverend James Edward Christie, Texarkana; John Gaon, Little Rock.

Dr. and Mrs. O. G. Hirst, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gilbert, and Mrs. Matt Hill, entertained the Combs-McSwain wedding party and out-of-town guests at a rehearsal supper.

Mrs. H. S. Sleeter and daughter Jo of Cleveland, Ohio, are the guests of her mother Mrs. C. H. Moore and Mr. Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Durbin and daughter Diane are visiting in Memphis, Tenn.

Allen Gee Sr. is spending the week in Hot Springs.

Miss Garen Rynes has returned to her home in Mammington, West Virginia, after having been the guest of her father Glenn Rynes.
